

Tito Emerges as Man Behind the Stalin Smear

NEW YORK (U)—One big winner from Nikita Khrushchev's denunciation of Joseph Stalin is another Joseph—better known as Josip (Broz) Tito, President of Yugoslavia.

Diplomatic sources here indicate Tito may have played a key role in, persuading the top Soviet leaders they should openly denounce Stalin for his rule of terror.

Later this year is scheduled to go to Moscow. It will be a triumphal trip for one of the few Communist leaders who ever defied Stalin and lived.

Tito is the man who only little more than three years ago was being pictured in cartoons in the Soviet press as a dog and an executioner in a Gestapo uniform.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda now uses a respectful "Comrade Tito" when it discusses events in Yugoslavia.

The rapprochement between Tito and the Kremlin began soon after Stalin's death. At first it moved slowly. Diplomatic relations were normalized. The Soviet press dropped its anti-Tito campaign. In private conversations in Moscow, Khrushchev admitted to the Yugoslav ambassador that the fault for the break had been the Soviet Union's.

In early 1955 there was a heated exchange, however. It was caused by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov's speech at the Supreme Soviet in which he attempted to picture the improvement in Soviet-Yugoslav relations as the result of Yugoslav repentance for past sins. Tito attacked Molotov for his statement. The Russians replied in effect by repudiating Molotov.

This set the stage for the trip of party boss Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin to Belgrade. The initiative came from the Soviet side—and Tito accepted the proposal.

When Khrushchev arrived in Belgrade he made an airport statement taking the blame on the Soviet Union for the difficulties between the two countries. He said, however, it was the fault of the executed police chiefs, Lavrenty Beria and Victor Abakumov. Tito listed in silence.

The trip resulted in a general understanding between the two men. But it's believed Tito made clear to Khrushchev that there would have to be an open break with Stalinism before Yugoslavia could consider moving closer to the Soviet camp.

Farmer Sought for Murder Gives Up

MARSHALL (U)—An Ozark hill farmer who roamed the heavily-wooded mountains of Sevier County for five days while police hunted him for questioning in a murder surrendered to officers last night.

Sheriff Billy Joe Holder said the man, 55-year-old John Moore, came to the home of a brother-in-law, Robert Housley, and asked Housley to telephone authorities. Moore waited at the house until Holder arrived to arrest him, said the sheriff.

Moore was jailed here, but Holder said he and Prosecutor Dan D. Stephens would question the farmer about the fatal shooting of Herbert Hunter this morning.

The sheriff quoted Moore as saying that he surrendered because "I decided I couldn't get away with it."

Moore was dirty and unshaven from his five-day stay in the woods, but apparently wasn't harmed by the ordeal, Holder said. The sheriff said Moore told him that he never left the woods during the manhunt.

The search for Moore began last Saturday afternoon after he and Hunter were involved in a fracas in the farm home of Tom Popejoy near the village of St. Joe.

About 8:30 Saturday night, Hunter was wounded fatally by a shotgun blast as he sat in Popejoy's home. The assassin fired through a window. A few minutes later, Popejoy also was shot down. He was hit after running out on a porch.

Hunter died Monday in a hospital at Little Rock, but Popejoy is recovering at a Marshall hospital from his wound.

Prosecutor Stephens has said that both wives of the shooting victims claim they saw Moore, armed with a shotgun or rifle, at the scene of the shooting. He said Mrs. Hunter told him she saw Moore "firing his gun" in the light of a window after Hunter was wounded. Mrs. Popejoy told the prosecutor she hid behind a truck during the shooting, and saw Moore pause by the vehicle.

LOOK! NO CABLES—This dredger without steel cables to move the shovel is the innovation of a manufacturer in Dueseldorf, Germany. A hydraulic system replaces the cables. Weight of the new model, which also runs on caterpillars, is about one-third less than that of the conventional type, its manufacturer says.

Fires Welfare Worker Head to Hire a GI

LITTLE ROCK (U)—The head of the state Welfare Department's Crippled Children's Division has been fired so that her job can be given to a returned war veteran—who got out of service 10 years ago.

Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams yesterday announced that Dr. Frances Brennecke, who has headed the division since 1950, has been discharged, effective April 4.

Adams' formal announcement said the move was made so that Dr. Elbert C. Gay, a prominent Little Rock physician, could regain the post, which he held prior to entering military service during World War II.

The announcement said Dr. Gay notified state authorities when he returned home in 1946 that he was available for re-appointment, but never was reinstated.

Dr. Brennecke, an orthopedic specialist, may appeal her dismissal. She was out of the city and couldn't be reached for comment. Adams declined to elaborate on the formal announcement of the action.

Says South Won't Accept Kefauver

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today he thinks "the South will not accept" Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as the front runner for the nomination.

Kefauver, generally regarded as the front runner for the nomination since his victory over Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota primary on Tuesday, will test his strength in the Florida primary May 29. There again he will contend with Stevenson, the 1952 nominee. Ellender said he would be "100 per cent" for Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas for the Democratic nomination.

Johnson has said he is considering a suggestion by Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.) that he seek endorsement as Texas' "favorite son" role at the convention and a serious bid for the presidency.

Ellender told an interviewer that "from all indications, Stevenson is going to lose popularity from here on out" and that "it will be necessary to nominate someone else other than Kefauver."

He said the South "will not go for Kefauver's views on civil rights."

Kefauver was one of three Southern Senators who did not sign a "manifesto" in which most Dixie legislators 10 days ago pledged the use of all lawful means to seek reversal of the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools. The other resigning senators were Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) and John F. Kennedy (D-Ten.) and Johnson, who said he was not asked because of his party leadership position.

Ellender said his "first choice" for the nomination is Sen. Kerr (D-Okl.) "but he doesn't seem to want it."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), who defeated Kefauver in the Florida primary four years ago, has said he would support Johnson for the presidency so has Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.).

Urges Demos to Be Plain on Farm Plan

RICHMOND, Calif. (U)—Sen. Estes Kefauver says "if the Democratic party asks plainly and positively about its farm program, we will win in November not only in Minnesota, but in that whole great farming area."

Kefauver, in a speech here last night, predicted a farm revolt against the Eisenhower administration.

Today the presidential candidate moved into Southern California to press his campaign for this state's votes at the Democratic National Convention.

The Tennessee senator said his victory over Adlai Stevenson in the Minnesota primary indicated a farm revolt by "the tremendous turnout" and by a larger vote for Democrats than Republicans.

His speech climaxed a busy day of campaigning in the San Francisco Bay area.

Kefauver and Stevenson met next in the Alaska primary April 24 and then the Florida primary May 29 in their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kefauver meets Stevenson again in the June 4 California primary, the last of the preferential vote tests. Sixty-eight delegates are at stake. The Tennesseean will campaign in the southern half of the state through Tuesday, starting today in Los Angeles.

Kefauver said that he still "had a hard fight and struggle" ahead in the California primary.

"If there is a certainty in politics," Kefauver said, "it is that the Republicans cannot win without the states of the farm belt."

In his press conference assessment of the Minnesota vote, Kefauver named Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas and Montana as states the Democrats have a "good chance" to carry in November. He amended on Kansas to say the prospect there was not as clear as in the other states.

Negro Pastor Convicted in Boycott Case

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (U)—A convicted leader in the Negro boycott of city buses here has pledged to continue the fight against segregation "no matter how many times" he is convicted of violating Alabama's anti-boycott law.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. was convicted yesterday of violating the boycott law and was fined $500 by Circuit Judge Eugene Carter.

Last night the 27-year-old Baptist pastor vowed at a mass meeting to continue fighting for "justice and equality" and to keep on in a leading role in the protest movement "no matter how many times they convict me."

King has been prominent in the 17-week-old campaign against segregated seating on city buses. Negroes here generally were expected to prolong their mass protest despite King's conviction.

The fine assessed against King was suspended after defense attorneys served notice of an appeal. The attorneys said they would take the appeal all the way to the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary in another test of the South's segregation laws.

King, pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist church, told his Negro audience last night that "freedom doesn't come on a silver platter." He added "Some of the things we have to go through are a necessary part of our campaign. There can ever be growth without growing pains."

Advances Theory of Volcanic Dust on Mars

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—Peculiar clouds on the face of Mars could be vast billowings of volcanic dust and steam, a Michigan astronomer said today.

If so, the clouds are added evidence for a theory that Mars is riddled by volcanoes. Wind-blown deposits of volcanic ash could cause some of Mars' strange markings, including perhaps some "canals."

By this theory, Mars might still be in early stages of changes such as the early experienced before life appeared on this planet.

The volcanic theory is advanced by Dr. Dean B. McLaughlin of the University of Michigan. He has proposed that some dark areas—sometimes thought to be vegetation—could be drifts of volcanic ash, some so-called canals might be partways of fallen ash, and others might be cracks or faults on Mars' face.

The Earth's oceans are perhaps due to water brought up from its interior by volcanoes. Mars might be in the same process now, with oceans yet to come to spawn life.

Today Dr. McLaughlin told the American Astronomical Society that some observations of Martian clouds are at least consistent with the theory of volcanic activity.

From a check of various astronomers' sightings of clouds, he said that clouds have been observed intermittently for the last 25 years over one particular area.

Pay Increases for Aircraft Workers

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (U)—Northrop Aircraft Inc. has announced pay increases for employees at six Southern California plants and one Florida installation.

President Whitley C. Collins said yesterday the 4 to 6 per cent pay boosts for 21,000 employees are retroactive to March 19.

Other benefits include increased second shift bonus, three weeks vacation after 12 years, 16 hours sick leave pay for hourly personnel with 12 or more years' service.

The facilities are in Hawthorne, Anaheim, Palmdale, 51 Segundo, Edwards Air Force Base and Ontario, Calif., and Cocoa, Fla.

The increase brings the maximum hourly rate to $2.95.

In Forest Fires Notify Rangers First

In case of forest fire, notify the nearest forestry employee or law enforcement authority by telephone, is the advice of the Arkansas Forest Fire Prevention Committee.

This committee is working with the sponsors of the Southern Forest Fire Prevention Conference, which meets April 13 and 14 in New Orleans, with 1000 citizens expected from 16 states. "Most members of the public who would spot a fire would be motorists, of course," said F. H. "Ranger Jim" Martin, Information chief, of the State Forestry Commission.

"If it is decidedly a rural area, perhaps all the citizen will have to do when he reaches a telephone is to report to the operator that a fire is burning so many miles from the telephone over which he is talking."

"Larger telephone systems usually have a number printed in the emergency telephone section of the directory. If such information is not quickly available to the motorist, he can get the information to the proper fire-fighting authorities by reporting to the state highway patrol or nearest sheriff."

"In any case, he should attempt to locate the fire in relation to some landmark which can be identified on fire control maps. The greatest service he can perform is to locate and report the fire, leaving the fighting of the fire to trained crews."

In areas where the forest is "protected" by fire suppression forces such a citizen report will start the two-way radios to crackling and the fire-floes and fire-fighters to the scene.

Since January 1 of this year 1221 fires have burned 18,180 acres of Arkansas' forest lands and the conditions for fires during this period have not been too favorable.

While enlisting the aid of the public in spotting forest fires, sponsors of the Conference emphasize the more important aspect of the problem—fire prevention.

The fire that doesn't start doesn't have to be reported or put out, they point out.

House Group Says Defense Unrealistic

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (U)—The House Appropriations Committee made public today a staff report criticizing Defense Department procurement practices as "unrealistic" and as giving contractors "a tremendous advantage."

Included in the 397-page document were formal replies from the Defense Department, the Army, the Navy and the Air Force, in general, they defended the criticized practices on grounds the hurryup or "crash" nature of the contracts involved made normal procedure impractical.

Rep. Whitten (D-Miss), a committee member, commented in the report that there were indications that "the government is spending billions needlessly to someone's profit."

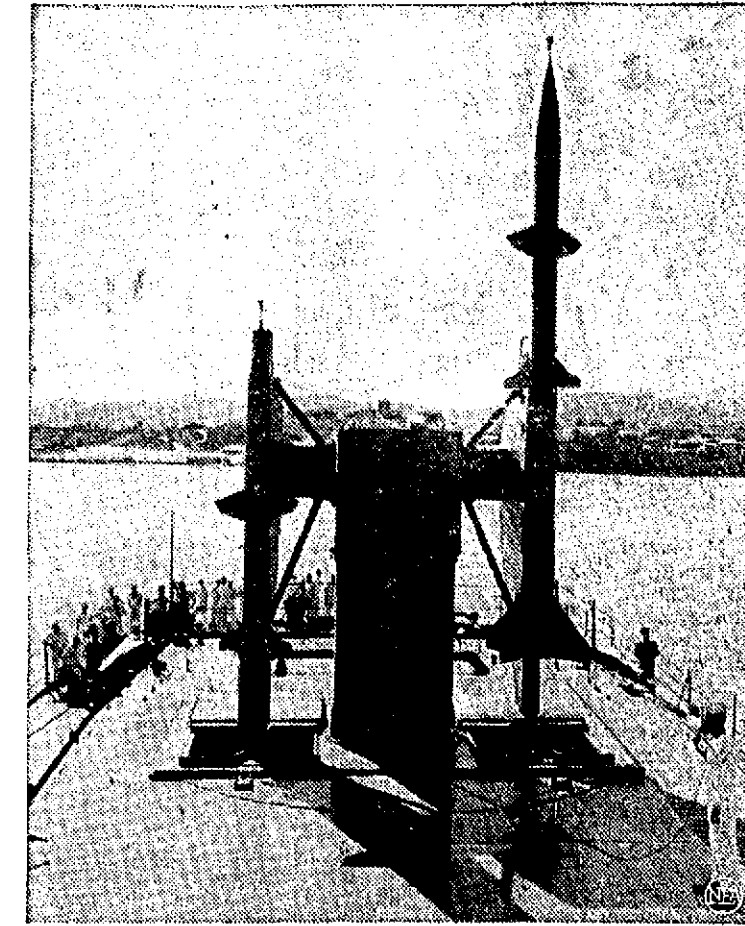

The report, on which three teams of committee probes have been working since last April, made no charges of corruption or willful wrongdoing.

No specific time period was covered by the survey, but much of the material involved was ordered or delivered during the Korean War period. The report made no distinction between Republican and Democratic administrations.

The wartime period included parts of both.

The report cited examples it said showed "serious deficiencies, unconscionable delays" in making formal contracts, "unrealistic" delivery schedules, diversion of production funds into research and development, inadequate stock control.

"Inadequate" in procurement and contract operations and reports of "political pressure" in contract dealings.

Teamsters Open Meet, Trouble Ahead

By JOHN GRIFFIN

HONOLULU (U)—Top leaders of the nation's largest union, the Teamsters, meet here Monday for a session that could split their ranks and jar the entire AFL-CIO.

Meeting in a hotel penthouse overlooking Waikiki Beach, the Teamsters' 15-member Executive Board may face a showdown over a major issue—the growing power of the union's controversial ninth vice president, James R. Hoffa of Detroit.

Whether the issue will come to a head at the eight-day session is not certain.

"These things have a way of building up and then being smoothed over" one veteran labor observer said.

But the ingredients are here. One anti-Hoffa source says several of the vice presidents on the board are prepared to tell teamster President Dave Beck he has to stand up and put down Hoffa.

They are, the source says, very worried about Hoffa's spreading power, particularly in New York and the East.

Their chance for a showdown could come on at least two items on the agenda.

One is the $400,000 loan which Hoffa offered last month to the local coast International Longshoremen's Association, ILA was kicked out of the AFL in 1953 as "racketeer."

The second centers around a disputed election in New York City's big 125,000-member Joint Teamster Council.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has implied the Teamsters will be suspended from the big labor federation if the ILA loan goes through.

Faced with that threat, Hoffa agreed to let the matter wait the meeting here.

Beck says it will get "very complete discussion," but neither he nor Hoffa predicts what may happen.

Rail Firemen in Strike Threat

WASHINGTON (U)—Railroad firemen, contending they are needed on diesel locomotives, have threatened a nationwide strike if necessary to protect their jobs.

The Firemen's Brotherhood set no deadline, but its president H. E. Gilbert advised President Eisenhower in a letter yesterday the union would take "the sternest measures of resistance," including a strike, if the carriers go through with what the union calls a move to abolish its members' jobs.

A smaller but more immediate strike threat came from the Transport Workers Union (TWU). Presidents of 52 TWU locals voted in Pittsburgh yesterday to call a strike of 25,000 nonoperating workers of the Pennsylvania Railroad unless a dispute over layoffs is resolved.

The strike would involve repair, maintenance and service personnel not directly concerned with the operation of trains, employed by the Pennsylvania system between New York and Chicago.

Johnson Given Chance to Unite Texas

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

AUSTIN, Tex. (U)—If anyone can bring a measure of unity among Texas Democrats and pave the way for recapture of the state from President Eisenhower, it's Lyndon B. Johnson.

That, at least, is the view of many Democratic "loyalists" in the Lone Star State, where Eisenhower defeated Adlai Stevenson four years ago by 1,103,878 votes to 909,228.

It is the view of Sam Rayburn, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, and leader of the Texas faction which supported Stevenson in 1952.

Rayburn has proposed that the state convention at Dallas May 22 endorse Johnson as Texas' "favorite son" presidential candidate and elect him as chairman of the state's delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Johnson, Democratic leader of the U. S. Senate, supported Stevenson's candidacy in 1952. Also he has friends among the followers of Gov. Allan Shivers, who bolted the party four years ago and carried the state Democratic Committee with him.

Rayburn's move ran head-on into Shivers' plans to head the Texas delegation to the national convention to fight again for a strong states' rights plank in the party platform and a candidate acceptable to him.

Shivers, in an interview, would not comment on Johnson as a "favorite son" candidate. But he said he would oppose Johnson's selection as chairman of the delegation.

"And we are going to win," he said.

Johnson is in no hurry to make any move until he has time to measure the reaction. Meantime, Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) and other southern Democrats have spoken favorably of him.

"I'm not a candidate for anything," Johnson said in Washington Wednesday. "But, if I were convinced—and I'm not at this time—that the people of the state want me as favorite son and to head the delegation, and that it would be in the best interests of the state and nation, it would be rather compelling with me."

If Johnson does make the fight, his friends say he will go all-out. Some reporters in Austin say he has one of the strongest personal organizations in the state. He's taking things as easy as he can after a heart attack last July.

Shivers says he will support Eisenhower again if the Democrats should renominate Adlai Stevenson.

H. J. (Jack) Porter of Houston, the Republican national committeeman, said Eisenhower will carry the state again. "Regardless of the Democratic nominee, and regardless of whether Shivers supports him or the Democrat."

John Q. Adams of Harlingen, GOP state chairman, said Eisenhower's prospects for carrying the state again, "by about the same majority, are excellent."

The United States was the first nation to plan a capital exclusively for its seat of government (Washington, D. C.).

Kefauver Out to Swing Vote of California

LOS ANGELES (U)—Sen. Estes Kefauver says the Democratic presidential nomination hinges on the California primary June 5—and he is confident it will swing his way.

The lanky Tennesseean told a crowd of 3,000 at Lincoln Park in nearby Long Beach yesterday.

"If I can win the California primary it will assure me of getting the nomination."

Earlier, Kefauver told a news conference "I am confident I will carry the state."

California is indeed a juicy plum. Kefauver picked up 26 convention votes to Adlai Stevenson's 4 in the recent Minnesota upset. California, however, will send 69 voting delegates to the Democratic convention at Chicago in August.

Since Kefauver arrived for a fast stepping, five-day Southern California campaign, he has been busy with the tactics which apparently paid off so handsomely in Minnesota and New Hampshire several speeches each day as much handshaking as possible and a constant attack on the administration's farm and foreign policies.

The senator also has been outspoken in his backing of the Supreme Court's desegregation ruling.

As in Minnesota, where important state Democrats backed Stevenson, Kefauver faces party opposition in California. He said he does not believe this opposition is as strong as it was in Minnesota but that some California party leaders are throwing roadblocks against him.

Wife Admits Dating Men Hubby Shot

LAKELAND, Fla. (U)—The 40-year-old wife of an expelled college basketball player, who was quoted by police as saying yesterday she had dated one of two men whom her husband is accused of shooting.

Detective Sgt. Willard Winnat said Mrs. Clark Gavin told investigators she dated Dick Blackwell of Tampa, and several other students, out of loneliness, then stopped doing so and told her 34-year-old husband about it. Winnat quoted her as saying that Gavin took calmly her disclosure of her "extra" week, then March 12 shot Blackwell in the foot with a .38 caliber pistol.

Blackwell was not seriously wounded. Anthony McBride Jr., 23, of Haverhill, Pa., was shot to death Wednesday night. Gavin, who comes from Northport, N.Y., is charged with first-degree murder in the death of his former fellow classmate and friend, and with felonious assault in the shooting of Blackwell.

ROME, (UP) —Italian Communist party deputies gave a watered-down version of the anti-Stalin campaign to their rank-and-file comrades today to make the new line easier to swallow.

The deputies received permission to cushion the shock for Stalin-Loving Communists directly from Italy's Red party chief Palmiro Togliatti last night.

Togliatti split hairs after speakers in a Communist parliamentary group meeting voiced the rank-and-file concern over the fall of their idol.

He told the meeting that Stalin committed errors, but "no one is trying to deny his greatness."

Only a few hours earlier, in Paris, French Communist Leader Jacques Duclos took the same tack in his report to his French comrades on the recent 20th Congress of the Communist party in Moscow.

SIENNA, Italy, (UP) —Officials of two Italian towns were blushing today at being duped into rolling out the Red carpe for a group of Italian students posing as visiting Egyptians.

The students, wearing fezes and robes, received gala welcomes in San Gimignano and Siena by wiring in advance that they were coming.

The "Egyptians" were toasting the future of the young Egyptian republic at a nearby hostelry when the hoax fell through. Someone mentioned that being Mohammedans, Egyptians do not drink.

MUNICH, Germany, (UP) —Tiflis radio broadcasting from Soviet Georgia last night carried a criticism of local police for their failure to maintain order.

The broadcast, monitored by the Free Radio Liberation, did not say specifically there had been rioting in Josef Stalin's home state but Western observers regarded the broadcast as confirmation of such reports from other quarters. Reports had said the rioting followed denunciation of Stalin by Red leaders.

LONDON (UP) —A group of Soviet veterans had accepted an invitation from Americans they met in Germany in 1945 to visit the United States, Moscow radio said today.

A Moscow broadcast monitored here said the "Soviet committee of the Elbe," an organization of veterans of the historic meeting with American troops in the heart of Hitler's Germany, will return the visit to the U.S.S.R. made by their American counterparts last year.

Husband Won't Have Children; Claims He Can't Afford Them

Dear Miss Dix: I have been married for three years and I consider them wasted years. I always thought of marriage in terms of a loving husband, happy home and children. None of these come to me. My husband thinks children are a hindrance and, though he makes a very good salary, claims he couldn't possibly afford to support them. He is already supporting a child by his first wife. We're of different religions; perhaps that's the cause of our disagreement.

Answer: No marriage can be completely on-sided and be successful. In this one year your husband calls the tune; your role is to pay the piper. Denied your right to have children — the greatest right woman can have — you are permitted to serve only as wage earner and housekeeper. Perhaps the situation is summed up in your statement that you are of different faiths.

If one of you (and I suspect it's you) has been separated from your church by this marriage to a divorced person, I recommend that you go to your clergyman for some badly needed straightening out.

Obey Parents
Dear Miss Dix: Two weeks ago I met a very nice boy, Rudy, but because he's 19, four years older than I, my parents won't let me date him. Several people have told me I should date him without my parents' knowledge. I know this is not the solution because my conscience bothers me. What else can I do?

Answer: I doubt very much if dating a boy so much older on so short an acquaintance would be very productive. Following parental orders probably wouldn't mean much loss.

You're quite right to turn a deaf ear to the advisers who urge actions contrary to your family's orders. Believe me, such people aren't interested in you; they just

Says English Pictures Lack Sex Appeal

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) —The trouble with English pictures is that they lack sex appeal. This comes from Joan Collins, provocative young British import.

The failure of English films to make more of a lent on the British market has been a source of constant concern over there. The frank-talking Miss Collins believes he has the answer, based on her own experience.

"It's simply impossible for a girl to get a break in England," she said, echoing a sentiment of another recent import from the Isles, Dana Wynter.

"They're not interested in women in England. They prefer their old favorites like Jack Hawkins. I love Jack too, but I think it's a shame that girls can't get a break."

"It's not the people's fault. They're interested in sex. It's the producers. They don't care about making pictures about girls. They prefer to make them about trains or auto races or bird watchers or the old vicar who is dying of cancer. Marilyn Monroe would never have had a chance in England."

What about Diana Dors, England's answer to Double-M? It took Diana 13 years in films to get where she is, Joan replied. "I know, because she is a friend of mine." But she agreed that Diana is known in this country more by her publicity than her films.

That Joan could qualify in the Situation Is Confusing to Democrats

BY JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON, March 23 (UP) —The jolly Republicans can sit back at this moment in the presidential campaign, smile happily at the Democrats, and say "We have President Eisenhower. What have you got?"

What the Democrats have is confusion. Ahead is more of the same.

They don't know who their candidate will be; except for the farm problem, the campaign issues are pretty thin; and they don't know, because of the Southern Democrats' angry mood, whether they can keep their party intact.

Until Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee beat him this week in the Minnesota presidential primary, Adlai Stevenson had the inside track for the party's nomination at next August's convention. Maybe he can make a comeback in other primaries.

But even if Kefauver sweeps them all, proving himself a miracle vote-getter, the convention may turn him down. He's never been a favorite of the big city bosses or the Southern Democrats.

The Democrats can't even feel sure they'll come out of the convention with a whole party. A Southern revolt would just about wreck any chance the party has in 1956.

A revolt may come unless the Southern can dictate the platform plank on civil rights and even the tone of the party's candidate through an ever-present threat to turn against him after the convention.

Yet a Democratic candidate who remained tongue-tied on civil rights through fear of losing the Southern vote would, to the rest of the country, be a recognizably weak candidate.

As a sign of trouble ahead, South Carolina Democrats called on all Southern Democrats this week to take a strong stand on states' rights at the convention. They urged all Southern states' Democratic parties to arrange to men, after the convention if they're not satisfied with what happens there. This is a neat nudge to all Democrats outside the South.

The Democrats can't forget that Virginia, Texas, Florida and Tennessee went for Eisenhower in 1952 and may do so again this year no matter what happens at the convention.

But the Democrats have other troubles except for falling farm income, the other issues in the campaign as they outline them don't have much emotional heat.

The Republicans will make the most of the country's prosperity and peace. The Democrats may warn of the danger of war but as sex sweepstakes is without question. I watched her perform a dance number for "The Opposite Sex," in which she plays the siren role performed by Paulette Goddard in the original version of "The Women." She slinked down a stairway and wiggled in as close to the bums and grinds as the censor will allow in films. She also has not one, but two bathtub scenes.

Britain was never like this—our thanks and appreciation to all those who were so kind and understanding during our recent sorrow.

CHAPTER XXII

The carabinieri in their funny Napoleonic hats scrutinized Mike's card. They kept staring from the card to Mike. They began to whisper to each other. Lisa and the Greek conductor's eyes met.

Mike's hand felt for the pistol in his belt. He turned and looked outside. The train was slowing.

"You! Stand up! Open your bundle!"

Mike got to his feet slowly.

"Come on now," the conductor moaned. "The train is full. Let's get on."

The Italian read the back of the card, looked up at Mike again, then handed the pass back and moved to the next seat forward.

The train gathered speed.

It took Mike many moments to calm down. He felt foolish and disgusted with himself. Obviously the woman and the conductor knew what they were doing. He remained rigid until the inspectors left the car.

"I want your pistol," she whispered sharply.

"Nothing doing."

"Stop speaking in English, you fool people are staring at us. Another stupid move like that and you'll land us both in Averoff. Now give it to me, we'll never get off the train with it."

Mike gritted his teeth and fussed like a small boy but reluctantly slipped the pistol to her.

In several moments she returned to the seat.

"It is on the rail bed somewhere between Amphissa and Lavadeia."

Lisa snuggled into his arms suddenly and kissed his cheek. In a second he realized the affection was for the benefit of the two Italians who were doubling back through the car.

The balance of the trip was spent in utter silence.

It was four in the morning when the train pulled into Larissa Terminal in Athens.

When the train had arrived in Athens many of the passengers attempted to escape inspection by ducking out of the windows. Most of them were rounded up immediately. Mike and Lisa spent four nerve-racking hours before passing the inspection desks and, when it came, it came without incident.

Lisa led Michael down a path in the direction of a frame house, then swung away from it onto another path that ran through a grove of lemon trees. A small isolated pump-house appeared in the midst of the grove.

She opened the door and entered first and lit a kerosene lamp.

A dozen books on one of the coats caught Mike's attention.

"Home at last," Mike said, dumping the sack on the table.

Lisa stood before him, as aloof as a statue. "Lazarus who owns this farm is one of our trusted people. He is instructed to keep away from here and make no contact with you. You will report if he makes any intrusions."

"Yes, ma'am."

"A meal will be left outside the door daily after sundown. Under no other circumstances are you to leave this house."

"Anything else?"

"Turn your back," she ordered.

Mike heard the rustle of silk underthings and quelled a natural inclination to peek.

"You may turn now."

In one hand Lisa held his pistol, in the other, his roll of drachmas. She dropped them on the table.

"In the future, try to be more discriminating before pulling a gun."

Mike was completely deflated now.

"When do I see Dr. Thacker?"

"As soon as he is ready to see you."

"Look, Helen or Mrs. Papadopoulos or whatever your name is, I know this has all been a routine thing for you but I want to thank you."

"It isn't necessary."

"I'm afraid it is necessary. When someone does something nice I think they should accept thanks. I can tell you I'm grateful for my life, can't I?"

Lisa smiled and her voice lost some of its coldness. "We have been rude to each other. I suppose it was natural under the circumstances."

"You aren't half as cold as you'd like me to believe. I don't suppose we'll be seeing each other, so thanks again."

"I'm afraid you're not rid of me," she said. "I have been assigned to check here daily."

"Swell... See you around."

"My name is Lisa."

"See you around, Lisa."

Blonde Girl Steals Show From Stars

By JAME SM. LONG

ROME (AP) - A platinum blonde high school girl who has a shape like Marilyn Monroe but says she is a tomboy has stolen the Italian picture pages from film queens Gina Lollobrigida and Sophia Loren.

Out of the obscurity of a small-town schoolroom, 18-year-old Paola Bolognani burst onto the nation's television screens on a quiz program. She knows all about soccer, which Italians love as Americans do baseball.

Platinum blondes are rare in this Latin land. This one has baby-blue eyes, a mischievous grin, and 117 pounds distributed over a 5 foot 4 of height in just the way the Italians like best.

And Paola really does know all about soccer. In three weeks on Italy's most popular TV show she ran up through the 2 1/2 million lire question. Tonight she's up to try for the top prize of five million lire ($8,500) if she wants.

Meanwhile, things have changed back in the little North Italian home in Pordenone, where Paola lives with her mother, a widowed grade school teacher.

Fan mail is pouring in at a thousand letters a day. Paola is taking it all with a grin-including the movie contract offers and "too many proposals of marriage" to count.

She is finishing school this year as an almost perfect-grade honor student and says, "No, I'm not even engaged."

Every picture magazine in the country is bursting out with full-page views of her. Italy's state-owned television admits "she's even running up the TV sales."

mind were the same fears that had tormented him before the train ride from Dadi to Athens.

They got off on October Street and took off afoot in the general direction of Concord Square.

As the crowd thickened near Concord Square, Lisa suddenly stopped, then changed their direction to a quieter side street.

They could hear the click of their heels as they walked through the Konlonaki section past the Church of Agii Theodoroi.

Another block brought them to an intersection of Aeolou Street. They stopped.

Mike looked up Aeolou Street and in the distance could make out the Cable Office which he has used several times on his arrival in Athens. A bit above that stood the National Bank.

"Where do we go from here?" he asked.

Lisa took her arm from his. "Up Aeolou Street," she whispered.

Mike lit his pipe. The glow illuminated her face. Her eyes betrayed her.

"Wait," she said. "There is time yet. Come. I want to show you something."
